* Please note that oversized fax pages can be charged separately if the duration of the transmission exceeds the normal size and can therefore lead to higher costs for FAX.de. For our system, the oversize calculation in this case does not mean the size of the document itself, but the time it takes to transmit it -this will also be charged to us in the future. The transmission time is determined by:

- the transmission speed

- the "complexity" of the document. Embedded images, lines or color changes/grayscale or photos with shading create frequent black and white changes within a scan line. These make the document large, which takes longer to transfer. If both factors coincide, it can even take a very long time, this then also means higher costs. Make sure to create your document with pure white background and black font if possible.

 We would like to point out that when using a service reception number (01805), you are obliged to inform your customers of the costs incurred when dialing this number (on your website, in correspondence, etc.) (TKG §109 & §123).
